What I love most about my job is that every day is a new adventure. I can spend it networking with other Texas Health Resources employees, acquiring new knowledge, and/or using my skills to create value within my department. My ultimate goal in life is to make a difference wherever I am.

Texas Health Resources allows telecommuting, so I often work from my home, Starbucks, library, a Texas Health Resources hospital, or any place that offers a wireless network, as well as my office. Technologies such as Microsoft Office Communicator and Outlook, Yammer, Twitter, and Facebook enable me to connect with my team no matter where I am.

Morning

I have a virtual one-hour meeting with my manager (we meet once a week) to update her on my projects, review completed assignments, and discuss any upcoming projects. After the meeting, I will begin working on the most time-sensitive project. Currently, I am transferring the Strategic Information Systems Plan website, which I developed using Dreamweaver, to an enhanced Microsoft Office SharePoint Server (MOSS) website. MOSS is a portal-based platform for collaboratively creating, managing, and sharing documents and web services, which will increase productivity.

Lunch

When I am in the office I like to lunch with my coworkers so we can catch up with each other personally and professionally.

Afternoon

I have a one-hour book study meeting (also weekly) to discuss a selected business book with various employees from my department. I arrange 11 onsite vendor demonstrations for two enterprise-wide strategy projects that I manage. I work with a team made up of representatives from various Texas Health Resources departments and external vendors to evaluate and select two systems to implement in 2012. Later in the afternoon, I have meetings either face-to-face or over the phone, to provide an overview of the two projects. I end my day tying up loose ends and creating an action-item list for follow up the next day. I review my calendar for the next day to be aware of upcoming appointments.

Downtime

Depending on the day of the week, I generally spend my evenings hanging out with friends or catching up on my EMBA program assignments. Once a week I volunteer as a Patient Advocate at the Texas Health Arlington Memorial Hospital Emergency Room.
